CONCEPT BY IAN SCHRAGER. DESIGN ARCHITECT JOHN PAWSON.

All dimensions are approximate and subject to normal construction variances and tolerances. Plan and dimensions may contain variations from floor to floor. There are two generally accepted methods for calculating the square footage of the Unit. The "Parametrical Method" is based on the description of the boundaries of the Unit, as set forth in the Declaration of Condominium and only includes the airspace within a Unit. The "Architectural Method" measures a Unit to the outside finished surface of exterior walls and to the centerline of interior demising walls and includes portions of the Common Elements of the Condominium or portions of the Hotel Parcel. The square footage derived using the Architectural Method is greater than the square footage derived using the Parametrical Method. The square footage of the Unit using the Architectural Method is set forth above and is included in sales materials to allow a prospective buyer to compare the square footage of the Units with units in other condominium projects that utilize the Architectural Method. The Parametrical Method is used in the legal documents for 2901 Collins Condominium. ## INFORMATION SHEET

Ian Schrager presents a collection of only 26 limited edition one-of-a-kind residences designed by John Pawson

Concept by Ian Schrager

Design Architect John Pawson

Original Hotel Architect Melvin Grossman

Residences Architect Nichols Brosch Wurst Wolfe and Associates

LOCATION

Ocean Front in Miami Beach at 29th Street and Collins Avenue

Located on Collins Avenue in Miami Beach, The Residences at The Miami Beach EDITION are situated between the ocean and the bay with breathtaking views of each. A magnet for art enthusiasts, the location plays host to the annual Art Basel Miami Beach with its myriad of events in and around the art fair. Today Miami Beach is a global hub for culture, commerce and leisure.

BUILDING

The historic Seville Hotel was designed and built in 1955 on the site of the old Pancoast Hotel. The project was led by Melvin Grossman of the Crosby Corporation. For Grossman, the Seville design was situated between the DiLido Resort Hotel (1953) and the Barcelona (1957), confirming him as an important hotel architect in the postwar development of Miami Beach. The Seville is a classic tower-on-pedestal type building which was considered a salient feature of the property, establishing itself prominently within the urban landscape of Miami.

Created from a landmarked 1950s building in combination with a newly constructed 18-story tower, the residences are designed by world-renowned architect John Pawson. Pawson's name has become a byword for integrity and serenity. The harmonious proportions with which he conceives his interiors, together with the exceptionally high-quality materials and finishes used in their execution, induce an immediate sense of well-being in those who experience them.

From one-bedroom residences to duplexes, triplexes and penthouses with private pools and outdoor kitchens, The Residences at The Miami Beach EDITION are designed to meet the needs of sophisticated, modern people who understand the art of living and share a desire to enjoy the freedom of a well-run, well-designed, and uncluttered life.

BUILDING ENTRY AND ELEVATORS

Dedicated private residents-only entrance with 2 private elevators and doorman

RESIDENCES

Twenty six one-of-a-kind 1 to 4 bedroom residences designed by John Pawson ranging in size from 909 SF to 4597 SF. Two Penthouses with pool, indoor/outdoor lounge and an outdoor kitchen. Beach House and Bay House residences with outdoor kitchen, lounge area and plunge pool.

For a seamless transition into a comfortable home, Schragger introduces the concept of “Residential Prêt-à-Porter” which offers residences in complete move-in condition. Custom furniture packages exclusively designed by John Pawson and the Ian Schragger design team are available with everything one would need in a household, including linens, dishes and cookware all pre-selected, unpacked and put away prior to arrival. Schragger continues to exceed expectations by recognizing what residents want and need before they even know it themselves—a home with the work taken out of it, ideal for resort living.
